DAZED

The best new female-fronted shows | Amie Dicke @ Anat Ebgi
Written by: Francesca Gavin
November 27, 2013

Can we get some representation in here? Dazed selects the top woman artists exhibiting now.

Despite the apparent equality of the art world, it still is shocking how few women are represented by galleries around the world. This week's selection is just the tip of the monthly iceberg that demonstrate how incredible, broad and boundary breaking female artists can be. It's about time that galleries and curators caught on.

VOID (2004) Amie Dicke

Amie Dicke at Anat Ebgi

Dutch artist Amie Dicke has come a long way from the gothic magazine pages that made her name. Her current LA show explores the subtext of images with lots obscuring, obtuseness and sheer skill.

Until 4 Jan at Anat Ebgi, Los Angeles